

Aircraft Finishing

The aircraft finishing for the client (IcelandAir) is a special livery depicting the Northern Lights (Aurora Borealis), a natural phenomenon occurring in the night sky in the Arctic and Antarctic regions.

Pic 1: Northern Lights

As desired by the client, using the above backdrop, Air Livery painted the aircraft with the colours of Northern Lights against a mountain background.

Pic 2: Full view of the painted aircraft

Pic 3: Close-up view of the aircraft

Pic 4: Side view of the aircraft

It is worth noting that the entire effort in the livery was through actual painting of the aircraft, and no decals were used. The entire project took 24 days for completion, after which the aircraft was handed over to the client.